Course Objective: Type III and Type II certification is required by Minn. R. ch. 7048

Type III Solid Waste Facility Operator Certification Training

This two day course (with exam) is training for professionals pursuing careers in demolition waste/industrial waste landfill management. This course develops a level of competency to operate and inspect demolition waste/industrial waste landfills.

The training consists of: Basic math; science, public health issues, rules & regulations, waste screening, asbestos, stormwater issues, facility operations and closure/post closure.

The exam is required to be a certified Type III facility operator. This certification is good for three years.

Type II Solid Waste Facility Operator Certification Training

This two day course (with exam) is training for professionals pursuing careers in municipal solid waste management. This course develops a level of competency to operate municipal solid waste landfills.

The training consists of: Basic math, science, public health issues, rules & regulations, waste screening, landfill design, asbestos, stormwater requirements, facility operations and closure/post closure.

The exam is required to be a certified Type II facility operator. This certification is good for three years.

Solid Waste Refresher Training

In order to renew a solid waste certification: Type II requires 18 contact hours over three years; and Type III requires six contact hours over three years. The one day refresher helps operators toward their renewal hours. The one day refresher consists of: ½ day classroom in the morning and a facility tour in the afternoon.
